

HOW HALSEY BOMBED PHILIPINES

Adm. William F. "Bull" Halsey tells this dramatic story about the invasion of Luzon.

"Just before we went into Luzon, I called all the Filipino stewards and messboys on my flagship together. I showed them a map of Luzon and pointed out the Japanese positions that MacArthur had told me not to shell for fear of hurting some Filipino civilians.

"I told them that the only way to get the Japs out would be to shell these key points.

"One of the messboys stepped forward and said that the marked-out positions included his home. I asked him if he thought we should shell it.

"Is that the only way to get the Japs out?" he asked me. I replied that it was.

"Then if you don't mind, sir," the messboy told me, "shoot the so-and-so's out to hell."

"We shelled those defenses, we killed a few Filipinos, but we got all the Japs."

ARMY SPEED UP

Senators studying the military picture have learned that the army ground forces command has been quietly cutting down on the training given to infantrymen before going into front-line action.

Infantrymen are now sometimes being shipped overseas without any advanced training. Some now find themselves in the front line only six months after having donned uniform. It is still longer than the average in the last war, however. Meanwhile, men are being yanked out of the air corps and services of supply and transferred to the infantry. Already supposed to be well-seasoned, they get an additional seven weeks' training and are then moved outside the country as replacements.

One new departure from practice in the last war is that few divisions have been withdrawn from action in their entirety for a thorough rest. Instead, once a division is in the line, it receives replacements, but no real vacation, for months. Congressmen returning from the war front have criticized this policy to army higher-ups.

General Bradley has tried to move green divisions into relatively quiet sectors for seasoning, but his intelligence hasn't always been able to gauge what the enemy considers a quiet sector.

LABOR MANAGEMENT

The scene is the lobby of Washington's fashionable Mayflower hotel. A modest, businesslike, gray-haired man walks over to the house phone, picks it up.

"Room 633," he says, and then after a brief pause, "Eric, this is Bill, shall I come up?"

The conversation is between the representatives of two one-time bitter foes, AFL Bill Green and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce Eric Johnston, preparing to spend an evening together discussing the mutual problems of labor and management. When Johnston first became president of the U. S. chamber, he immediately called on Green and Phil Murray, suggesting closer cooperation in the public interest. They have been good friends ever since.

FRANCE AND THE BIG THREE

Those who sat at Roosevelt's elbow during the Yalta conference give a new slant to the reasons why sensitive General De Gaulle was not invited to join the big three. They say that neither the President nor Prime Minister Churchill had any objection to De Gaulle's presence, but felt rather neutral about it. Stalin was the man who opposed it.

Stalin, according to those returning from Yalta, pointed out that this was to be primarily a military conference and France was only playing a minor role in the war. Since the Big Three were bearing the main brunt of the war, Stalin said he saw no point in having De Gaulle sit in on a conference concerned largely with military strategy.

The Russian war chief was quite definite and repeated the point that if the Yalta conference were concerned primarily with political and economic postwar problems, it would be different. But when military matters were being discussed, he just didn't want De Gaulle around.

Then to clinch his views, Stalin recalled that France surrendered to Germany early in the war, and refused to turn over the French fleet to the British as per treaty.

Joe Gomes Elected President of Civic Group

Monday's Chamber of Commerce meeting saw Joe Gomes local orchardist and civic worker, elected as president. Martin Walsh again ordered to carry on the duties of secretary-treasurer, Walter Silberbauer named vice-president and the following members to the board of directors: Bill Weeks, Herbert Shadle, Joe Dahl, Gene Hodges and Dave Ribble. Jack Murdock is the outgoing president.

Contributions of $15 each were ordered paid to the local Youth Council and the Woman's club, the latter amount to be used in connection with serving at the USO hut. The American Legion was voted $25 toward the Honor Roll addition and $10 was contributed to the current Red Cross drive.

Membership dues are now payable, and some dozen members present at Monday's meeting started the campaign by subscribing for 1945. Membership dues are $2.50 and may be paid to the secretary or any official named above. With a number of civic projects contemplated, it is emphasized that the Chamber of Commerce is a community organization and needs the financial and moral support of the entire citizenry. Save the time of solicitors by sending in your dues now.

The matter of police protection, non-existent at present, was discussed and secretary Walsh stated that he had turned over to the county supervisors a complete survey and recommendation. This will receive action in due time and call for a vote in order to set up a really operating police zone that will give the entire community good protection. The preliminary work has already been done and official action is now awaited to complete the project.

Similarly the long-delayed fire protection zone is only awaiting county action to make it operative. Both of these measures have been Chamber of Commerce projects and have been the source of many hours of hard work and expense to individuals who have furthered these movements.

A resolution of sympathy was ordered sent to the family of District Attorney Fitzgerald, who died last week.

Bill Weeks reported on the San Jose Light Opera association's program given at the high school auditorium last week. While a complete report cannot be given at this time, he said that close to $500 would be realized, which is to be turned over to the grammar school for purchase and installation of a ventilating system in the auditorium.

A new interest is being evinced in the group, with new arrivals taking an active part and showing a vital interest in the community's welfare. Some discussion as to zoning, incorporation and welfare were discussed and will come before the body when demand dictates.

Born: To Mr. and Mrs. Valva M. Tollison, San Jose-Los Gatos road, Campbell, a girl, Mary Lou, March 9, at the O'Connor sanitarium.

Walter G. Smily Honored for Presenteeism

In the Feb. 23 issue of "Wings," the official publication of Spokane Air Technical Service Command, of which the Seattle Department with which Walter G. Smily is connected contains the following article with a very natural, life-like picture of Walter.

Walter G. Smily of Seattle Communications Repair Detachment of SPATSC has a presenteeism record it would be hard to equal.

Since his entry to duty with the War Department in June, 1942, Mr. Smily has not lost a single day's work through sickness, he has not taken any annual leave or been tardy.

Mr. Smily's genial nature and ready wit and smile are a source of inspiration to those with whom he works. His motto seems to be "If we can't get it, I'll make it," and he is called upon continually to use his skill with tools and machinery.

Mr. Smily has traveled three and a half times around the globe in the capacity of a civilian as well as a military man. His perfect attendance record is the proud boast of the Seattle Communications Repair Detachment.

Accident At Dehydrator

What might have been a much more serious accident occurred Monday morning when the gas was lighted under one of the tunnels at the West Coast dehydrating plant.

A slight explosion followed two unsuccessful attempts to light the system in which David Sanders had his eyebrows and a little of his hair singed, but no burns. However, the walls of one tunnel were blown out, but work has gone on, with only a little delay and reduction of output.

S. Sgt. Silveira Is Wounded In Action on Leyte

Staff Sgt. Anthony Silveira, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Silveira, recently of Gilman avenue but now residing in Santa Cruz, visited old friends in Campbell Saturday.

Sergeant Silveira, who lived here but went to school at Santa Clara high, enlisted in the army in January, 1941. In May of 1942, as a member of the 17th Infantry, 7th Division, he went into combat which carried him through the campaigns of Attu, Kiska, the Marshalls, and Leyte. He stopped a .25 calibre bullet that layed him up for a brief time, but was in the "big push" on Leyte. There Lady Luck deserted him and he sustained a shattered right forearm from a shrapnel burst.

Shipped home last month, Sergeant Silveira is at Hammond General Hospital in Modesto.

Wearing the Purple Heart, numerous campaign ribbons, and a unit citation bestowed by a grateful Philippine government, the Sergeant declared, "I've been lucky!" Asked what he'd like to do after his discharge, Silveira said, "I'd like to finish my education."

Opera Company Gives Fine Performance

Friday evening, March 9, in the high school auditorium the San Jose Light Opera company gave a benefit performance for the auditorium ventilating system of the grammar school.

The program opened with selections by the grammar school orchestra under the direction of Richard Gordon followed by several groups of songs in which Dorothy Lee Rich was soprano with the San Jose Light Opera chorus. Mrs. Rich also sang "One Fine Day" from "Madam Butterfly." The dancing pupils of Mrs. Vaudine Putnam Sanders added greatly to the enjoyment of the program.

Jack Murdock was the genial announcer and master of ceremonies for this Campbell American Legion Post No. 596 sponsored benefit.

Literally a full house greeted the performers who donated their services for the occasion and the financial returns are very gratifying.

Oldest Campbell Building Razed

What is stated to have been the oldest business building in Campbell was razed a few days ago.

It was built for Charles Sutter for a paint shop and stood between the railroad track and the present lumber office. It was sold later when the lumber yard was established and at the time of its demise had been moved to the rear of the lumber yard where it had stood until it was no longer safe for use.

In conversation with Mrs. Sutter a number of interesting items were learned. For instance that at one time the post office was in the Benjamin Campbell house, which now is the Wilson apartments, then that Charlie Berry had it at the S. P. station. Mrs. Sutter's brother and Mrs. Sutter conducted it in a building east of the tracks and about opposite the above mentioned paint shop.

Mrs. Edith van Rossem who has been living in Ogden, Utah, is now here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Hughes, as her husband has been transferred for probable overseas duty.

Jack Vitale Gets Bronze Star

In a recent issue of the Press we had an item stating that Pfc Jack Vitale of Company C, 361st Infantry Regiment, 91st "Powder River Division," had received a Bronze Star.

The Public Relations office of the Fifth Army has sent us the following account of the action for which the decoration was awarded.

When several men were buried in the wreckage of a building that was shattered during an intense concentration of German artillery fire, Vitale ordered other men in the vicinity to take cover and dug into the wreckage, unaided, for the trapped men. Himself badly bruised, he continued his work until he had removed all the trapped men to a place of relative safety. He then went forth again into the intense fire to evacuate another seriously wounded soldier.

"His initiative, loyalty and unselfish devotion to duty," the citation stated, "reflect great credit on himself and on the armed forces of the United States."

Vitale entered the army October 29, 1942.

Hog Cholera
Figures recently released by the U. S. bureau of animal industry show that there were over 6,000 outbreaks of hog cholera last year. This represents an increase of about 25 per cent over the previous year and should serve as a warning to everyone engaged in the production of pork that the disease may be just around the corner, waiting to strike. Since it is impossible completely to prevent the introduction of hog cholera virus into a herd by practicable sanitary measures, reliance must be placed upon preventive inoculation for protection against this disease.

Red Cross Drive Reaches $3000

With one week left for the Red Cross Drive half of the quota has been reached. The response has been more than gratifying and made the task an easy one. Just half of the solicitors have made returns on their territories so the outlook is very bright.

Cambrian women have turned in $500 to date and this does not represent their full return.

C. P. Klassen has organized the territories and arranged to have willing workers cover all parts of Campbell. This smooth organization has been a major reason for the success of the drive.

Coupled with this has been the friendly way in which the solicitors have been received. All the people who have contributed are to be thanked for making the drive successful at its half way mark. The ultimate goal of $6000 will be reached, it is felt by all.

If you are one that has not been contacted you may leave your contribution at the Campbell Water company. It will be taken care of and you will have more than accomplished something.

Campbell residents can be proud of the foregoing facts: the quota of $6000 has been half met; every one has helped.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Para-Ski Troopers
When will this war end? Nobody knows, so the Army is continuing its training of Para-Ski Troopers. They're parachute troops who know their way about on skis or any other place in snow covered mountainous country.

A great measure of the success of Russia's victories last winter is attributed to these troops who move with the silence of a snowflake. Our work on the home front is not so hazardous as that of the Para-Ski Troopers but it is important that we perform our daily tasks and make every effort to increase our regular purchase of War Bonds.

THE BOOK MARK

by marty
"Black Boy" by Richard Wright.

Richard Wright is a negro. He was born on a plantation near Natchez, Miss. His childhood was a series of moves from one southern town to the next, of sporadic schooling and part-time jobs. At fifteen he went to Memphis and struck out on his own, earning in two years enough money to go to Chicago. In Chicago he dug ditches, ran errands, washed dishes, sold insurance, and was clerk in the United States post office. Always an omnivorous reader, he began to write. In 1936 the publication of a long short story, "Big Boy Leaves Home" attracted the attention of the critics. This was followed, in 1938, by "Uncle Tom's Children," a book of related short stories and, in 1940, by his novel "Native Son," which was a Book-of-the-Month club selection.

"Black Boy" is the moving and terrible story of a negro boy's childhood in the south. It is the story of the author's own life—not fiction, but the record of how things were with him, set down straight.

Richard Wright's life from birth was a life of poverty; not alone in material things but in kindness, love, affection, trust. Before school age, his father deserted the family, leaving his mother with two small children and no money. From one relative to another, the mother and sons traveled, struggling to keep body and soul together. More often than not, Richard's soul seemingly soared on alone, far into the heights of ambition, intellectual desire and fair play. His under-nourished and ill-clothed, emaciated body withstood the childhood hardships and brought him gloriously to adult life, housing a soul burning with cravings for honesty and justice for his race.

Here is the black truth about "Black Boy," representing and embodying the black race. Not only does the author reveal the attitude of the whites toward the blacks, but as forcefully does he give us the blacks attitude toward the blacks. It is an excellent and informative work.

WOMEN OF CAMPBELL.... What Will You Say to Them?

Women of Campbell! While you hesitate the terrible list grows and grows. Our wounded are waiting for you, so patiently, so bravely, so sure you will come. The long list of war dead does not make pleasant reading.....

Nor does the situation in regard to our wounded. For they are coming back to America at the rate of 1,000 a day! And something must be done about it, these men must get proper care.

The country is doing everything in its power to recruit more nurses. But at the same time a vast effort must be made to stretch the professional usefulness of every single Army nurse on duty in the United States. This is why more Wacs are needed to help NOW!

If you meet enlistment requirements, and want to join the "San Jose WAC Platoon" you will be given basic training and technical training at Ft. Oglethorpe, Georgia. Then you will be assigned to the Army General Hospital of your own choosing where you will have four weeks of additional on-the-job-training. Wacs who complete training satisfactorily, become Technicians Fifth Grade right away. Join your local WAC hospital Unit. Get your friends to enlist with you, and serve together in the same hospital.

Hopper:
Looking at HOLLYWOOD

NO MATTER how grown-up we look or are, we all remain kids at heart. Deep down the child in people remains alive, even though on the outside they grow old and gray. That's the reason folks never lose their taste for fairy tales.

In wartime we particularly want to believe goodness always triumphs, that Prince Charming invariably slays the ogre and rescues the Princess Beautiful.

The fairy tale in films has never been more popular than it is today. Columbia is basing its most pretentious production of the year on "A Thousand and One Nights," a technical color fantasy of old Bagdad. They've taken the Aladdin and his lamp story and are giving it a sophisticated twist, with Cornel Wilde playing Aladdin as a crooner, the Frankie Boy of an earlier age, Evelyn Keyes as a jive-mad jinniyeh.

Fantasy de Luxe

Director Alfred E. Green assures me that the picture will have all the fairy tale fixings—magic carpets, giants, a subterranean river with crocodiles which change into lotus flowers just in the nick of time, harem beauties by the dozen, and an under-water ballet that promises to make the old Annette Kellermann subsea movies made during the first World War look like flotsam and jetsam.

Even before World War I, fairy tales were popular on the screen. As early as the turn of the century Georges Melies, in France, discovered that movies could show magic in a way the stage never could manage.

It wasn't long before America showed feature length fairy tales and fantasies. One of the earliest was Mary Pickford in "Cinderella." Owen Moore, Mary's husband at the time, played the prince, and while the "transformation" scenes were crude beside those in "A Thousand and One Nights," they made people gasp when the pumpkin became a coach and Mary's rags turned into royal glad rags before their eyes.

Lavish in Old Days, Too

It was Annette Kellermann, one-time champion swimmer, who made the biggest splash of that period in an elaborate fantasy called "Nep-tune's Daughter" and another, "A Daughter of the Gods." Annette brought the one-piece bathing suit to fame, and gals have never discarded it since. These films were made on location in the Bahamas and Cuba under Herbert Brenon.

William Fox starred the Fox Kiddies in elaborate versions of fairy tales, with youngsters playing both junior and adult parts. Remember blonde Virginia Lee Corbin and Frances Carpenter in "Babes in the Wood" and "Jack and the Beanstalk"? Those movies cost fortunes.

Doug Fairbanks knew the dream of youth better than any one else. In "Robin Hood," "The Thief of Bagdad," and "The Black Pirate," he gave us some of the best fairy tales the screen has had.

Walt Disney, bless him, really brought the fairy tale to full flower with his magic brush. "Snow White," which is now revived, is a lovely thing for kids of all ages. And now, thanks to a special campaign on my part, it will be revived each Christmas.

Try, Try Again

"Alice in Wonderland" came along, too, just at the time the screen was learning to talk. Paramount made the mistake of covering such famous faces as those of Gary Cooper and W. C. Fields with masks.

Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream" was given a spectacular production by the late Max Reinhardt.

Judy Garland played Dorothy in "The Wizard of Oz," based on the Baum books, and you certainly haven't forgotten her singing "Over the Rainbow."

Yes, there's no end to fairy tales, and we're all happier because of them. It's good to be able to adopt the faith and eyes of a child on occasion and sail through a thousand and one nights of romance and adventure on a magic carpet.

Democracy Still at Work

Where else could it happen but in America? Only a few short years ago I was talking like a mother to a tall handsome youngster, scared out of his wits about playing a scene in "Children of Divorce." Yet the other night that youngster, Gary Cooper, bid $100,000 in war bonds for one of my silly hats, and quipped: "I just wanted to get the darned thing off the market." That same kid is not only starring in but producing his own picture. And in many ways he's still the shy, reticent lad.

Typhus Preventive

The army's typhus preventive, DDT, promises to be the most effective general insecticide found to date. First synthesized in Europe in 1874, DDT was proposed as an insecticide in 1940 by a Swiss concern, Geigy and Company. Early last year it became the subject of intensive study by the U. S. department of agriculture. Published results of this work and actual experience indicate that DDT will have a far-reaching effect in the control of household pests, agricultural enemies and disease-spreading insects.

The Need Is Great for Used Appliances

WHILE you're house cleaning or rummaging around in closets, basement or garage you may discover some idle, usable or easily repairable appliances. If you are not using them why not swap or sell them?

We have set up in our local offices a clearing house service for appliances. Here you can list the appliances you would like to sell or swap. Here also other customers list their needs for certain appliances. After this, buyer and seller deal with one another.

Use this free listing service and do a wartime "good deed" by helping some young or hard-working wartime family get appliances they desperately need but cannot buy elsewhere.
